THREE LABOR LEADERS

One Year for Gompers, Nine Months for Mitchell and Six Months for Morrison the Court's Decree.

Indignant Protests From Labor Unions All Over the Country -Climax of the Celebrated Contempt Case.

Whether President Roosevelt will take any action, as he has been urged to do in telegrams received from different labor organizations throughout the country in connection with Judge Wright's decision, has not yet been decided, it was stated at the White house. It was explained that the president had not read the decision, and therefore cannot say if he will take any action. There was an intimation, however, that some action might be taken if the president should be convinced that the sentence is unjust.

The labor organizations urge the president to prevent the incarceration of the labor leaders. The Illinois United Mine Workers sent this telegram:

"In the name of 75,000 mine workers in Illinois we desire to protest against the recent decision committing to penal servitude those great commoners and representatives of the American labor movement. They may be guilty of a breach of law, but a law that denies the use of a free press and full speech is a breach of the fundamental principles of our country. Such decisions only tend to create enmity and class hatred. We respectfully solicit your influence to prevent the incarceration of these men."

All of the defendants were in court when sentence was pronounced, and notice of an appeal to the District of Columbia appellate court was filed, Gompers being released on $5,000 bonds, Mitchell on $4,000 and Morrison on $3,-

The wife and daughter of Mr. Gompers heard the sentence and were visibly affected.

Messrs, Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison subsequently were cited for contempt, and this phase of the case has been before the court for many months, the proceedings taking the form of a hearing of testimony before an examiner and many arguments.

Pending an appeal to the United States court of appeals of the District of Columbia, all three defendants were released on bail, the amount being fixed Gompers, $5,000 Mitchell, $4,000; Mor-

Judge Wright's decision was a scathing denunciation of the defendants. He re-cited the conditions antedating the in-junction and referred to the fact that junction and referred to the fact that for twenty-five years the Buck plant had Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Morrison told the court teday they endorsed what Mr. Gompers had said.

It is stoutly asserted that neither financial nor domestic troubles had worrlied Mr. Peterson, but there are conflicting stories told regarding the incident
